"A Giant Adventure" Bible Background:

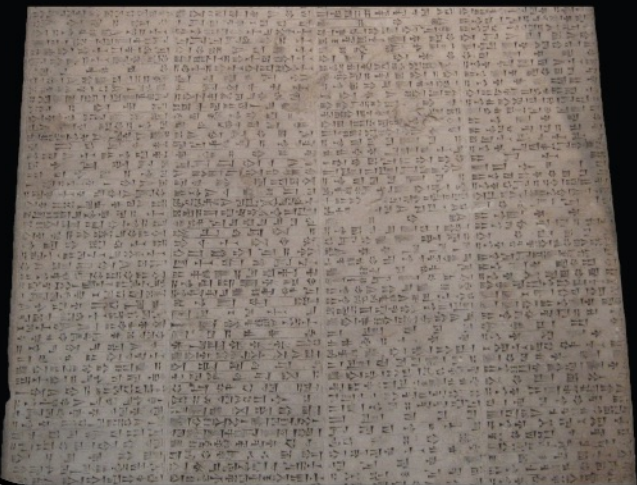

Jeremiah served as a prophet for 40 years during the reigns of five kings of Judah. One of them, King Jehoiakim, was a persistent enemy of Jeremiah and is described in Jeremiah 36 as burning one of the prophet's scrolls. Archaeologists believe Jehoiakim's palace has been identified at Ramat Rahel, where decorative features match Jeremiah's description of the king's residence. Jeremiah foretold Jehoiakim's downfall, which later came at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon.

In 1 Samuel 17, Goliath was called "Goliath of Gath," referring to the hometown of the Philistine. In 1996, Aren Maier uncovered the cite of the ancient city of Gath. There they have uncovered many artifacts, including pottery shards with Philistine names on them. According to archaeologists, Gath's remains were discovered within Tell es-Safi, which is a city in modern-day Israel. The excavations in Tell es-Safi have continued from 1996 until the present day, which marks 30 years of excavating Philistine artifacts!

“Roar!” Bible Background:

In this episode, Chris, Joy, and Gizmo are sent to Babylon during the time of Daniel and Darius. Darius began ruling Babylon after Cyrus the Great conquered the city. Historians have written about Cyrus—also known as Cyrus II of Persia—for more than 2,000 years, and archaeological discoveries continue to expand what we know about his reign. One such discovery is the tablet shown on the left, called the Nabonidus Chronicle, which records how the Persians captured Babylon.

In this episode, the kids travel to Susa in the Persian Empire during the time of Esther. The image shows a collection of Judean cuneiform tablets—known as the Al-Yahudu tablets—discovered in modern-day Iraq near the ancient city of Borsippa. These documents come from a Jewish settlement that existed before Cyrus conquered Babylon and show that many Jewish families remained in Babylon through the time of Esther, with some staying for several generations afterward.

“Paul Keeps the Faith” Bible Background:

In this episode, Superbook takes Chris, Joy, and Gizmo to Rome during the reign of Emperor Nero. Nero ruled Rome for 14 years and was emperor when Paul was imprisoned there. He ascended the throne at just 16 years old and, for his first five years, ruled under the guidance of wise advisors. Over time, however, Nero became a cruel ruler and was even accused of killing his own mother. The image to the left shows the remains of the Domus Augusti, where Nero lived before building his grand palace over the ruins of Rome after the great fire.
